Loose Talk

D. W. Clapperton, a C.P.R. lawyer in Calgary, is reported to have told the Knights of the Round Table in that city the other evening that there is no check except legal action to ensure accurate and unbiased news reporting in Canada.

Well, it's a free country and the press reported what Mr. Clapperton had to say. It was his opinion. He was free to express it and the press was free to report it. And this still being a free country the people are free to buy the newspapers or not as they see fit. The very fact that Canadians are buying more newspapers today than ever before in history indicates that they appreciate their freedom. Mr. Clapperton's opinion of the press notwithstanding.

There's a lot of loose talk about the press and what can be done in a free country to force it to report events to suit those who appear to think that everything but the press should be free. So far as we know there is nothing in the world to prevent Mr. Clapperton from starting a press of his own. That would enable him to get a much better idea of what constitutes a free press and the public's opinion on his judgement.

OUR HALF ACRE

By J. G. Umbrite

This is the time of year that patches of Canada Thistle are showing up in full bloom in the fields of grain. Farmers are advised to cut these patches before seed is formed and scattered all over the field. When thistles are in bloom the plant is at its weakest stage. If the thistles are cut when in bloom and then ploughed or tilled at least twice before freeze-up a good deal of progress will have been made toward their eradication. When this system is followed with either good summerfallow next year or a good smother crop the thistles in most cases will be completely eradicated.

New Bulletin on One-Way Disc

"One-way disc maintenance and operation is the title of a new bulletin prepared by B. T. Stephanson of the department of agricultural engineering, University of Alberta and E. B. Martin, agricultural engineer for the Alberta department of agriculture.

Topics discussed include speed of operation, rubber tires size of discs, one-way disc adjustments, tractor hitch and one-way servicing. These bulletins can be obtained free of charge from N. F. Bell, district agriculturist, Drumheller; or from the municipal office, Three Hills.

Keep the Engine On

Someone asked William Wrigley Jr. why he spent so much money on advertising. They pointed out to him that the sales of chewing gum were of mammoth proportion. They also said that everybody knew that he made Spearmint Gum and that if he dropped advertising his product would stay on top. His answer was a minor classic of its sort. "Gentlemen, he said, why take the engine off a train when it is rolling along smoothly or when there is no uphill grade." A darned good answer . . . buy gum.

There is a high cost to low living.

Turn In U.S. Money

At the request of the Foreign Exchange Control Board the R.C.M.P. have commenced a country wide check of the way in which storekeepers, service stations, hotels and others are handling U.S. currency received from tourists.

The U.S. dollar expenditures of tourists in Canada are one of the main sources of the foreign exchange needed to pay for Canadian imports and other normal expenditures in the United States. So that the U.S. dollars spent by tourists will be available for these purposes the Foreign Exchange Control regulations require that Canadian merchants and others turn the U.S. currency they receive into their banks.

Officials of the board said that reports they have received indicate that many merchants are not turning in their U.S. dollar receipts but are paying them out freely in change and in some cases are selling them to members of the public in exchange for Canadian currency. This has led to the check-up now being made and where breaches of the regulations are found prosecutions under the Foreign Exchange Control Act will be commenced.

Under the regulations a merchant, hotelkeeper or other person engaged in a business serving tourists may accept U.S. currency at par and may make change in U.S. currency for a non-resident tourist who tenders U.S. currency in payment for purchases. For this purpose a merchant may keep on hand a reasonable amount of U.S. currency but, with this one exception, is required to turn in to his bank all U.S. currency he receives.

In no circumstances is a merchant entitled under the regulations to pay out U.S. currency in exchange for Canadian currency or in change to a Canadian resident even though the latter may have tendered U.S. currency in payment for a purchase.

Cereal Crops Field Day

The annual Cereal Crops Field Day will be held at the Dominion Experimental Station Lacombe on Thursday, Aug. 14 with the program officially commencing at 1.30 p.m.

A tour is planned which will enable visitors to view the various field projects underway at the station. New introductions in cereal crops such as Larain and Garry oats, Montcalm barley, Redman and Saunders wheat will be seen in comparison with varieties now being grown commercially. In addition, crop rotations and chemical weed control will be topics for discussion. All departments at the station will be open for inspection and an interesting and instructive day is assured for all members of the family.

Compromise is a spineless give and take where no one either gives or takes enough to leave anybody really satisfied.

Why He Couldn't Pay

The following famous letter from a debtor explaining to his creditors why he could not pay up is again going the rounds:

"In reply to your recent request to send cheque I wish to inform you that the present shattered condition of my bank account makes it impossible for me to take your request seriously.

"My present financial condition is due to dominion laws, liquor laws, provincial laws, municipal laws, corporation laws, by-laws, brothers-in-law, sisters-in-law and outlaws, all of which have been foisted upon an unsuspecting public.

"Through these laws I am compelled to pay a business tax, amusement tax, sales tax, gas tax, school tax, water tax, auto tax and syn-tax.

"In addition to these initiating taxes I am forced by the strong arm of the law to get a permit for this thing and that I am required to get a business license, a town license, a provincial license, a sign license, a motor license, a dog license, a fishing license, a radio license, a liquor license, not to mention a marriage license.

"For my own safety I am required to carry life insurance, liability insurance, fire insurance, burglary insurance, property damage insurance, compensation insurance, collision insurance, hail insurance and business insurance.

"The government has now so governed my business that it is no easy matter for me to find out who owns it! I am suspected, expected, introspected, inspected, disrespected, examined and re-examined, informed, required, summoned, fined, commanded and compelled, until all I know is that I am supposed to provide an inexhaustible supply of money for every known need, desire or hope of the human race.

Simply because I refuse to donate to each and all, and go out and beg, borrow or steal money to give away, I am cursed, discussed, boycotted, talked to, talked about, lied to and lied about, helped up and down and robbed until I am nearly ruined."

UNCLE HY SAYS:

The gardener in his garden plot, once August comes, begins to learn just what he's got, once August comes, he'll pull each carrot, onion, beet, and see that they are fit to eat, then leave the plot both clean and neat, once August comes.

The cottagers soon realize, once August comes, and so for them it's no surprise, once August comes, that days in camp are now but few, and they must bid it all adieu, and town life soon they must renew, once August comes. The husbandman has thoughts ahead, once August comes, the empty bin, the empty shed, once August comes, and if he at all is wise, he'll order now his fuel supplies, for summer all too quickly flies, once August comes.

A Need For Doctors

PUBLIC ATTENTION HAS BEEN DRAWN frequently in recent years to the shortage of doctors in Canada. In some rural communities lack of sufficient medical services has been extremely serious, while even in many of the larger centres there has been need for a greater number of doctors. The Canadian Press recently made a survey of the situation in Western Canada. The figures which were compiled in this survey showed that British Columbia has more medical men in proportion to its population than any of the other Western Provinces. That province has approximately 1,400 doctors, or one to every 785 persons. Manitoba has the next highest percentage, with 726 doctors, making one to 1,032 inhabitants. Alberta has 689 doctors, or one to every 1,200 persons, while Saskatchewan has 577 physicians, which is one to approximately 1,500 people.

All Physicians Are Not Active

The figures for the whole of Canada indicate that there are more than 12,000 registered physicians, which makes one to every 908 people. However, as previous figures showed, in provinces where the rural population is high the number of people to each doctor is much more than 908. It must also be considered that although there are actually 12,000 registered physicians in Canada, all of them are not devoting their full time to the practice of medicine, some of them being engaged in teaching, medical research, or some form of administrative work. Although considerable effort was made to gather statistics on the subject, it is pointed out that the figures vary constantly as older doctors reach retirement age and new ones enter the profession. However, the figures do show that many doctors must have more than a normal amount of demands upon their services, and that some districts must lack adequate medical facilities.

Help Is Needed In Other Lands

In spite of the apparent shortage of doctors here, Canada has more physicians per capita than any other country in the world except the United States. China, with some 400,000,000 people has less than 12,000 doctors. That country has need for the services of 200,000 doctors, while Ethiopia, with 12,000,000 people has no doctors or trained nurses. Sixty per cent. of the doctors in Czechoslovakia were executed or died in German concentration camps, leaving that country with an acute lack of medical services. While Canada has no surplus of doctors, it is apparent that we could render great service to devastated nations by sending medical personnel to help them at this time. The answer to the problem would appear to lie in training more doctors here. Canada has fine medical schools, with very high standards, which at all costs should be maintained. However, if more facilities could be made available for training doctors at this time, it would relieve the shortage here, and also enable Canada to help those countries whose needs are so great.

OIL BOOM IN CANADA'S WEST

NEW YORK.—Canada is now experiencing the liveliest oil boom in its history, as more than a score of companies race against time to discover the new domestic supplies which the Dominion needs urgently, according to The Lamp, publication of Standard Oil Company (New Jersey).

Imperial Oil Limited, Canadian affiliate of Jersey Standard, recently brought in a well near the prairie town of Leduc, and this development has given impetus to the search in which 10 major companies are taking part, the publication added. The new well is 16 miles south of Edmonton, and has been called "the most encouraging initial flow since the discovery of Turner Valley field." To date, The Lamp pointed out, Leduc No. 1 is producing a good 39 degree gravity crude, which the refiners like because it yields a maximum of the gasoline and other light products needed by the prairie farming population.

It is ironical, the Jersey Standard organ stated, that Canada—with a per-capita consumption of oil second only to the United States—last year imported 63,000,000 barrels, or 89 per cent., of the 71,000,000 barrels its refineries processed, since all geological evidence indicates that the Dominion has ample undiscovered oil reserves of its own.

BELGIAN URANIUM ORE SUPPLIES FOR BRITAIN AND U.S.

BRUSSELS.—Premier Paul Henri Spaak said that war-time arrangements placing uranium ore supplies from the Belgian Congo at the disposal of Britain and the United States still were in effect.

"It was necessary during the war," Spaak told the Belgian Senate, "to assure our allies of material necessary for atomic energy. Arrangements are still current. The Government hopes that an agreement for the control of atomic energy will soon intervene. The Belgian Government will then adapt its legislation on uranium to conform with international organization."

New Service Centers For Canada's Blind

TORONTO.—Sixteen new service centers for Canada's 14,679 blind persons will be built across the Dominion within five years, Col. E. A. Baker, the Canadian Institute For The Blinds managing director, announced at the institute's 29th annual meeting recently.

Two centers are under construction in Kitchener, Ont., and St. Catharines, Ont. Plans are going ahead for others in Ottawa, Windsor, Hamilton, London and Toronto.

FUNNY And OTHERWISE

"How does it feel to be 101 years old?" asked Bobbie to his centenarian great-grandfather.

"Well, my boy," replied grandpapa, "I'm much stronger on my feet at the beginning of my second century than I was at the beginning of my first."

"I suppose it was necessary for you to visit me as often as you did, doctor?" queried the convalescent, studying the bill.

"My dear chap," replied the doctor, "you were in danger every time I visited you."

Girl—"While I deeply appreciate the honor of your proposal of marriage, circumstances beyond my control compel me to decline."

Young Man—"Darling," what are those circumstances?"

Girl—"Yours."

Mistress: "Maggie, I think I'll take one of the children to church this morning."

Maggie: "Yes, ma'am."

Mistress: "Er—which one do you think would go best with this dress?"

"I see you've advertised your saxophone for sale."

"Yes, I heard that my neighbor had bought a gun."

"They tell me that Jenkins had to propose at least five times to Miss Moneybags before she accepted him."

"Well, she certainly gave him a run for her money."

"My poor fellow," said the old lady, "here is a shilling for you. Goodness, gracious, it must be dreadful to be lame, but just think how much worse it would be if you were blind."

"Yer right, lady," agreed the beggar. "When I was blind I was always getting counterfeit money."

"What are you doing?" asked the convict of the reporter.

"I'm taking notes."

"Humph! that's what brought me here."

Until November

Mr. Bevin makes no bones about what hinges on the Foreign Ministers Conference in London in November. This literally may be the world's last hope. And differences are so great that many think our only chance is for a "two world peace" the chance that East and West may possibly agree to differ.

This, however, is blindness to the fact that we are in an ideological age. An ideology is such passionate belief about a way of life that its adherents will not rest till the whole world adopts it. There can be no two-world ideologies.

If we do not want to bow before the Eastern ideology, or go to war again to defend our Western way of life, we must make some drastic changes in that way between now and November. We must develop a way of thinking and living that conquers other nations in ideological grounds. There can be "no compromise on principle" as Secretary of State Marshall emphatically says. But there may be some better principle. There may be an idea which other nations will like better than their own and which we, at the same time, like better too.

The problem is to find an idea that totalitarian powers agree it is freer and more enterprising than Free Enterprise. Inspired Enterprise under God Control is the obvious and only possible answer. It we ourselves start living under God's guidance to achieve "one world internally, that is full agreement in our own domestic, industrial and political affairs, there is still a chance that this will impress the Eastern world in November. We may show, in action, an idea that they like better than their own and thus achieve a one-world peace in London.

WORLD OF WHEAT
By H. G. L. Strange

An Iniquitous Subsidy

The bread and flour used by the twelve million people of Canada, rich and poor alike, is cheap because it is subsidized. Millers buy wheat -- around 70 million bushels a year -- at 77 3-8 cents a bushel instead of at the Wheat Board market price of $2.59. The subsidy is in two parts. One part, or 77 3-8 cents a bushel (the difference between 77 3-8 and $1.55) is now being paid for by the tax payers, but the other part of the subsidy or $1.04 a bushel (the difference between $1.55 and $2.59) is paid for by prairie wheat growers only. It is announced that part of the subsidy paid by the tax payers will be withdrawn, so that soon millers will have to pay $1.55 for wheat for flour and bread consumption in Canada. Nothing has been said, however, about the removal of the much greater subsidy of $1.04 a bushel now paid alone by our prairie farmers. To continue this subsidy is, it seems to me, not only a very wrong and unjust thing, but also quite unnecessary. There would seem to be no reason why the well-off Canadian people, including the very richest, should have their bread subsidized by prairie wheat growers, thousands of whom this year will suffer from very poor crops.

Work Safely

During the past 20 years, steadily increasing use of mechanized equipment in agriculture has greatly aided the farmer in the numerous tasks he must perform in the working day. It is a grim fact however that while the use of this equipment has saved him countless man hours of work, its misuse is responsible yearly for thousands of farm accidents -- with resultant loss of time, money and, in far too many cases life.

It would be ridiculous to say that the farmer would be better off without modern mechanized equipment; such a statement would be untrue. It is not the machine that causes the accidents, but the operators. Farm machinery is constantly being improved to make it as nearly fool-proof as possible so that momentary carelessness on the part of an otherwise careful operator will not result in injury. This improvement will continue; but despite the ultimate perfection of the machine, accidents will continue as long as operators continue to disregard safety rules. Repair, adjust, unclog your equipment, yes, but not while it is running.

Just as a chain is no stronger than its weakest link, so you are no safer than your most thoughtless act. For that reason don't delay, check your working habits now with accepted safety rules and resolve to observe them every day of the year. Be careful. What you save may be your life.

1,129 Entries in Barley Contest

Preliminary lists of provincial committees show a total of 1,129 entries in the western division of the $25,000 National Barley Contest for 1947 sponsored by the brewing and malting industries.

The entries are 106 fewer than in 1946. All provinces show a slight drop, the biggest decrease in Saskatchewan. By provinces the number of entries are Manitoba 486, Saskatchewan 286, Alberta 357. The Alberta entries include the Peace River District of British Columbia.

Entries from the different provinces last year were Manitoba 507, Saskatchewan 336; Alberta 391.

Chairmen of the provincial committees have expressed the view that the competition this year is likely to be keener than last even with the smaller number of entries. Most of the contestants appear to be experienced growers. Nearly all those who made a good showing in their regions in 1946 have entered again this year. In 1946 there was a considerable number of eliminations because growers had entered varieties not eligible in the contest or else had insufficient acreage. This year there has been less than half a dozen.

Nutrition Question Box

Will left over portions of canned foods become poisoned if left in the tins?

Miss Joyce Lewis, nutritionist for the home economics service of the department of agriculture, says that the answer to this question is NO. It is quite safe to leave foods in the cans for as long as it would be safe to keep them otherwise. In fact, foods will keep better in the cans than if turned out into a bowl or jar, because the tins were thoroughly sterilized in processing and there is less danger of contamination.

Miss Lewis advises, however that highly acid foods such as citrus fruit juices or tomatoes should not be left in the can for more than one day, not that there is any danger she says, but they do tend to get off flavor.

Nine billion dollars was spent in U.S.A. in 1946 for liquor.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

KEYS

By T. CARTER DODD

STUBBORNLY Barney Thorpe refused to leave the office or his work until the last estimate was checked and filed away. Refused in the face of the ominous warnings that blared forth from the radio at his elbow.

"Go home at once. The storm is rising to hurricane proportions. Go home at once. Quickly."

The rain battered viciously against the window. Looking at the radio I said with all the urgency I could summon.

"Don't you hear that warning, Barney? Don't be a fool."

We were alone in the office. He had sent the girls home an hour ago. Though not yet five o'clock of an autumn afternoon it was dark outside. And that driving rain and ugly wind. It was not pleasant to hear it nor think how nasty the nearby Long Island Sound waters must be.

"Oh that radio," there was cool disdain in Barney's voice, "they're too nervous. Besides it'll only take a few minutes more here. Go on down like a good fellow and wait in the car for me. You know, the one behind Harry's jalopy."

Abruptly I jerked my head away from the window and the storm to look at him. His face was clouded, his eyes cold.

"Yes, I know the car," I replied, and could not for the life of me refrain from adding, "I should, after all these 15 years. What fools two brothers can make of themselves."

Then I went out quickly. Much as I liked Barney Thorpe I never did relish bearing the brunt of his wrath. It could be terrible where his brother, Harry, was concerned, terrible in more ways than one.

Downstairs, on the street level, peering through the heavy glass door the storm appeared worse, if that were possible. There were no intermittent gusts. There were no moments, none at all, when one might make a dash for the car. On the contrary it was a ceaseless savage brutal assault on the face of the building. The wind and rain battered with unrelenting fury.

Deep down in my heart it frightened me. The waters of Long Island Sound, a quarter of a mile distant, must be pretty ugly by now.

Across the street a light, blurred and faint, showed where Harry Thorpe's cigar store stood. Harry had not gone home. Was he going to ride out the storm in his place? Or was he too just delaying? It would serve both brothers right if they delayed too long. If they both got caught. But then, and I shook my head, I would be in the same boat. My irritation mounted.

Stubborn old fools. All the Thorpes. Just 15 years ago Harry had proposed opening the store. He was going to put all his savings into it because he was sure it would be a grand success.

Equally positive it would be a terrible blunder Barney told him profanely not to. Warned him he was courting disaster.

Harry was stubborn, opened the store and now still had his original jalopy. Barney was stubborn, swore that his brother was a fool and bought himself a new car every year, when there were cars. Not because he needed one but because he wanted it for a purpose.

And that purpose? Every day he parked that car right behind Harry's jalopy just to prove how right he, Barney, was. And how terribly wrong by contrast Harry was. Every year the jalopy got older but every year Harry appeared to grow more content. And Barney more like a mule.

Every day for 15 years. And not once in all those 15 years, not for one single fleeting second—

A heavy hand on my arm. Not having heard a sound I jumped. It was Barney. "It looks kind of nasty," he said soberly.

Who waited for it to get nasty, I felt like retorting? We made a dash for the car and were soaked before we had gone ten feet. In the car Barney fumbled for the keys and I peered out into the storm. Harry was at the window of his shop. He looked lonely.

"Damn!" said Barney, "I can't find my keys." He searched every pocket and then started in all over again. The devil was in me. "Harry looks nice and dry," I remarked sourly.

"Double damn!" said Barney, still hunting. "Hope the motor starts," I added. "What in thunder," he growled, "have I done with my keys."

"Maybe Harry'll give us a tow," I said wickedly.

"Maybe I'll bust his face," he shouted. "I must have left those damned keys in the office."

At that instant I saw Harry sloshing toward us. Barney gave no sign that he saw him. But he did crawl over me to get out. He went out one door even as the door on the opposite side was opened. Whether by design or no they just missed each other. I looked at Harry and my irritation boiled over.

"You're both fools," I said angrily, "why don't you break down and talk to each other. I'd like to break your necks."

To Harry's credit it must be said that he looked kind of foolish. He dropped some keys on the car seat. He was soaked.

"Mine," he said, "I thought he was stuck. Tell him he can have my car. I'm staying."

Then he was gone and for the moment I didn't know whether to curse him or praise him. Two stubborn old fools. They had not spoken to each other for 15 years and each was obviously determined not to be the one to break that record.

Because, as Barney said, "he called me an old fool," and because, as Harry said, "he can't tell me what to do."

Barney reappeared. He looked as if he had fallen into the Sound with his clothes on. He saw the keys. "Whose are they?" he demanded suspiciously. "Harry's," I told him, "he said to use his car."

With a face as black as the storm Barney sloshed off into the wind and rain. He went straight for Harry's store. I could see him as he opened the door. Then he closed it and came back.

"I flung 'em in his face," he growled, "he'd better mind his own business."

By now I was speechless from fury. It was so utterly assinine. I started to get out of the car heedless of everything except my wrath. So I missed, at first what Barney saw. Abruptly he shouted, and his voice was full of horror, even as he flung himself out of the car.

"Quick! Run for your life. Oh my God! A mountain of water."

Then I saw it. A great wall of water rolling along the street. Straight toward us. It looked as black as ink and as terrible as night.

At such a moment one does not know what one does. One acts from instinct. And what one does is beyond all reasoning. The next thing I knew I was leaping madly up the fire escape with the water swirling about my legs.

Safe on an upper landing on the side of the building I stopped. A river of water churned about below me. Across the street the light in the cigar store still shone. The driving rain blurred my vision. But not entirely. I could see into the store and what I saw was forever after seared into my mind. A living, lightning-flash picture.

Inside that cigar store were two men, shoulder to shoulder, struggling desperately to keep the door closed. Barney and Harry Thorpe. Brothers. Then the lights went out.

SURPLUS MUNITIONS

A nomenclator, or name caller, was employed at banquets in ancient Rome to prompt the host on the names of his guests, clients, or hangers-on.

Mountain Climbers Suffer From Altitude

FAIRBANKS, Alaska. — Turned back 3,000 feet short of their goal—the 30,270-foot peak of Mount McKinley—by the altitude sickness of one of their party, three University of Alaska mountaineers were at the Mount McKinley National Park.

Morton Woods, 23, of Boston, suffered from the altitude at 17,000 feet and his companions, George Schumann, 22, Santa Maria, Calif., and Gordon Herreid, Santa Maria, Calif., decided to abandon their mountain climbing.

They brought him down to the 11,000-foot level where he recovered quickly.

MOST OF US DON'T KNOW

Hardly anyone—not even the publisher—knows how important a newspaper is to a community.

The smaller the town or village, the more important the newspaper is in its economic life. Its news, editorials and feature stories focus the interest of surrounding territory on the place in which the paper is published.

This force and the force of advertisements by local merchants build an ever-widening trade area. This means more business, more money for schools, homes and churches—a bigger and better town.

A town with a newspaper is a town with a future. The better the paper, the brighter the future.

It deserves the support of every business man in that town.

We are trying to make this paper worthy of our town. Your help and suggestions are appreciated.
